Our burritos are in an oven and microwave safe wrapper and label. Although they are oven safe, the packaging and label should not go above 325° Fahrenheit or the label will shrivel. Burritos should not be heated nor come in contact with heat above 300°

REMEMBER: Heat exceeding 325° will cause the label to warp.

Increasing the temperature may shorten the heating times, but can cause the tortilla to become hard. Please keep that in mind when creating accurate heating times

Ideally, thawing the burrito first would provide the best results. Slightly unwrapping or loosening the wrapping right before heating will also provide for optimum results.

Microwave
- Thawed - 1 minute on each side for a total of 2 minutes
- Frozen - 1 minute 45 seconds on each side for a total of 3 minutes 30 seconds

Oven
- 1-4 burritos
  - Thawed - 25 minutes at 250-275°
  - Frozen - Do not heat up in oven from frozen
- 5-10 burritos
  - Thawed - 35 minutes at 250-275°
  - Frozen - Do not heat up in oven from frozen

Cooking times are approximate depending on the power of the heating source. All cooking times are suggestions. Exact cooking times should be determined and established at your establishment. Temperatures should be checked in accordance to your local Health Department regulations.